To set up the application you need to install docker and docker compose. Then you run the command `docker compose up` which builds the image and runs the main typescript file.

Our password strategy will be maintained through a shared .env file. This will deploy our secrets as environment variables so that they're not committed to the repository.